Why should you bother with crypto If you are one of the many people who are still contemplating about investing into crypto, this is a good time to do it. I got to know about Crypto through friends. And, I had always wanted to invest in it. Then, I read about a lot of people investing in it and making a fortune. After a bit of research on my own, I decided to invest into it. I spent about Rs. 1500 buying Bitcoin from the exchanges. This gave me a brief introduction to investing in crypto. There are different ways of purchasing crypto. I wanted to invest in Bitcoin which is a digital asset that can be used to purchase goods. I wanted to use my Bitcoin to make profit. It is called investment because this is not a game. If you purchase the Bitcoin, you won't be able to trade it. You can only hold it. This is because this is a trading product which is owned by the crypto exchanges. They have the stock of bitcoins in their accounts and they are ready to buy Bitcoins and sell them. If you purchase Bitcoin and the price goes up, you can sell it at a higher price. This is the reason for the volatility of the crypto. The price fluctuates a lot. There is no control over the price. There are two types of Bitcoin. One is called Bitcoin. The other one is called Litecoin. Litecoin is a different coin which was designed by the founder of the bitcoin. It's smaller than Bitcoin. Litecoin is a peer to peer cryptocurrency. It runs on the same kind of codes. Litecoin is much more active and busy than Bitcoin. It was designed for instant transactions. And because of this, it is faster and cheaper. Bitcoin and Litecoin are both open source code. But, the developers behind the Bitcoin differ with the developers of the Litecoin. The same features are used in Litecoin as well as Bitcoin. The Litecoin development team aim to achieve the same things as the Bitcoin. But, the difference is that they aim to improve Litecoin at an exponential rate. How to buy Bitcoin and Litecoin There are many ways to buy bitcoins. You can make it through a website
